

10 October 2008

Rugby Rangers first to aid town centre shoppers

Last month Rugby Rangers were first on the scene to help out with more than ten incidents requiring first aid in the town centre. The team of Rangers are all trained in first aid and are able to offer hands on assistance in and around the town centre. As part of their training Rangers are taught how to react to injuries and emergencies for a reassuring presence in a crisis.

The incidents last month have seen Rangers involved in calling ambulances right through to staying with family members to ensure they are safe too. "The presence of the Rangers in our town centre is a very positive one," says Aftab Gaffar, Operations Director at Rugby BID. "For shoppers in Rugby it is reassuring to know that there are a group of people that can be called upon to react quickly in an emergency."

The Rangers help people every day in so many different ways from reuniting lost children with their parents, supporting local businesses through to helping with situations where people need medical attention and its all part of their daily routine.